

Aaron Larson Joins PTIGlobal

PTIGlobal is pleased to announce Aaron Larson has joined the staff in the corporate office as Global Project Manager.

Originally from the Seattle metropolitan area, Aaron graduated with a B.A. in Germanics with an emphasis on minority cultural/religious studies. He studied at both Western Washington University and at the Technical University of Dortmund (Germany), where he got his first real taste of the translation/localization industry in the aviation and tourism fields.

Aaron has also worked as a multilingual voice over actor for language learners, and has spent time teaching German at the high school level. "As a PM in the localization/translation industry in Texas and now back home in the Northwest, I can continue to explore my passion for language in guiding clients across linguistic borders to reach new potential," says Aaron.

When not working, Aaron enjoys taking advantage of what the Northwest has to offer in adventure, culture/music, and geography, which often go hand in hand.
